

Lyndsey H. Cain

Associate

A general litigator, Lyndsey Cain handles matters ranging from products liability and intellectual property disputes, to international commercial and humanitarian matters. She is committed to zealous representation of her clients, individuals to multinational corporations, in every stage of the litigation process.

Originally from Alaska, Lyndsey earned a B.A. from Davidson College, graduating magna cum laude with high honors in Political Science in 2012. She then completed a dual J.D./M.A. at Duke University. She graduated cum laude from Duke University School of Law, where she served as an Articles Editor of the Duke Law Journal.

During law school, Lyndsey worked in the in-house legal departments of two Fortune Global 500 corporations, one in the logistics industry and the other in oil and gas.

Lyndsey clerked for Chief Judge James C. Dever III of the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of North Carolina before joining Williams & Connolly.
