

Counseling for Private Company Formation, Non-Profits, Joint Ventures, LLC's

Williams & Connolly has represented and counseled individuals and business entities in a wide range of matters involving joint ventures, private company formation, limited liability companies, general and limited partnerships, non-profits and strategic alliances.

Whatever the issue, and no matter the complexity, we guide our clients into the best form of business for their particular circumstances. For example, Williams & Connolly recently established a series of limited liability companies for an entrepreneur in the financial services business and did the same for the founder and chairman of a major bank; set up from scratch privately held companies used for asset acquisitions of ongoing businesses; and negotiated contractual joint ventures for the development of new businesses.

The firm also has guided partnerships, including law firms and real estate ventures, in converting from general partnerships to more modern forms such as LLPs or LLCs, as appropriate. For example, we recently assisted a major London-based professional partnership in establishing a United States affiliated entity.
